

Script for Usability Test

🔊 Web browser should be open to Google or some other “neutral” page

Hi. My name is Georgina Ramirez and I’m going to be walking you through this session today.

Before we begin, I have some information for you, and I’m going to read it to make sure that I cover everything.

You probably already have a good idea of why I asked you here, but let me go over it again briefly. I’m asking people to try using a Web site that we’re working on so we can see whether it works as intended. The session should take about 15 minutes.

The first thing I want to make clear right away is that I’m testing the site, not you. You can’t do anything wrong here. In fact, this is probably the one place today where you don’t have to worry about making mistakes.

As you use the site, I’m going to ask you as much as possible to try to think out loud: to say what you’re looking at, what you’re trying to do, and what you’re thinking.

Also, please don’t worry that you’re going to hurt my feelings. I’m doing this to provide recommendations for site improvement, so I need your honest reactions.

If you have any questions as we go along, just ask them. I may not be able to answer them right away, since I’m interested in how people do when they don’t have someone sitting next to them to help. But if you still have any questions when we’re done I’ll try to answer them then. And if you need to take a break at any point, just let me know.

You may have noticed the camera. With your permission, I’m going to record what happens on the screen and our conversation. The recording will only be used to help me figure out how to improve the site, and it won’t be seen by anyone except me. And it helps me, because I don’t have to take as many notes.

If you would, I’m going to ask you to sign a simple permission form for us. It just says that I have your permission to record you, and that the recording will only be seen by me.

🔊 Give them a recording permission form and a pen

🔊 While they sign it, START the SCREEN RECORDER

Do you have any questions so far?

THE QUESTIONS

OK. Before we look at the site, I’d like to ask you just a few quick questions.

First, what’s your occupation? What do you do all day?

Roughly how many hours a week altogether—just a rough estimate— would you say you spend using the Internet, including Web browsing and email, at work and at home?

What kinds of sites (work and personal) are you looking at when you browse the Web?

Do you have any favorite Web sites?

THE HOME PAGE TOUR

OK, great. We're done with the questions, and we can start looking at things.

Click on the bookmark for the site's Home page Meat and Bread

First, I'm going to ask you to look at this page and tell me what you make of it: what strikes you about it, whose site you think it is, what you can do here, and what it's for. Just look around and do a little narrative.

Allow this to continue for three or four minutes, at most.

THE TASKS

Thanks. Now I'm going to ask you to try doing some specific tasks. I'm going to read each one out loud and give you a printed copy.

I'm also going to ask you to do these tasks without using Search. We'll learn a lot more about how well the site works that way.

And again, as much as possible, it will help us if you can try to think out loud as you go along.

Hand the participant the first scenario, and read it aloud.

Allow the user to proceed until you don't feel like it's producing any value or the user becomes very frustrated.

Repeat for each task or until time runs out.

PROBING

Thanks, that was very helpful.

WRAPPING UP

Do you have any questions for me, now that we're done.

- ❑ Give them their incentive, or remind them it will be sent to them.
- ❑ Stop the screen recorder and save the file.
- ❑ Thank them and escort them out.
